El River Railroad Company, Notice of

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the El River railroad company, will be held at the passenger station of the company, at Butler, in the state of Indiana, on Wednesday, the second day of November, A. D. 1887, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, for the election of directors for the ensuing year, and the transaction of such other business as may legally come before the meeting.

P. W. SMITH, Secretary.

October 3rd, 1887.

PROF. MARIANO SEMMOLA, the famous

Italian physician and scientist, who was present at the recent Medical Congress in Washington, created considerable sensation by his attack upon the Koch theory of microbes as a cause of disease. The position which he took was that in most cases microbes were the effects, not the causes, of disease, and that the only way in which it could be established that they were the causes would be to reproduce the disease artificially by them. Upon this point he said: "The experiments made have not given any satisfactory results except in carbuncle and tuberculosis.

Then to conclude hastily that this or that microbe in such and such a disease is the cause is to but ignore or set aside the experimental method. The demonstration which the experimental method demands in this case would be complicated, because we would not only have to know that the microbe existed, but we would have to know what was the condition of the blood necessary to the culture of that particular microbe, and science tells us that, for the present, this is a problem we cannot solve." If this be so, then away goes the theory of bacteriology. If more theories could go with it, and medical science could be content with resting squarely upon demonstration, there would be less jumping at conclusions and more working upon the lines of actual experiment.

Meanwhile poor humanity can go on eating, drinking, and breathing microbes by millions without fear as to the result, until science can demonstrate the beneficial effects of these microscopic bacteria.

When they can be demonstrated as causes of disease and bacteriology can counteract them, it will be time to give them the attention that is due.

FOUR O'CLOCK P. M.

A ROYAL WELCOME!

Is Given the President and His Wife as They Journey Westward—The Reception at St. Louis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 3.—Two or three thousand persons assembled at the station at Green Castle, and paid their respects vociferously as the train ran past at a slow rate. A long train load of returning G. A. R. men stood upon the siding, the passengers in which crowded its platforms and windows and waved and shouted salutes.

TERRE HANTE, Oct. 3.—At Terre Hante station a crowd of several thousand persons thronged the track and platforms, and made the disembarkment of the party difficult. The president was received by Senator Voorhees, Ex-Secretary Thompson and the committee, and with his companions was driven to the normal school building, in front of which a stand had been erected for the formalities of the reception. It was dark before the procession reached the stand, and the time for the departure of the train had already passed. The great square contained as nearly as could be estimated by the glare of the electric light more than 20,000 persons. Senator Voorhees called the assemblage to order, asked for silence and announced Mr. Richard Thompson, who had come to Terre Hante with the president. Mr. Thompson in the course of his speech of welcome dwelt briefly upon the resources of the Mississippi valley to which the president was making his first visit.
The president replied briefly as usual and the visitors were escorted again to carriages and as soon as these could be freed from the multitude, drove rapidly to the depot and took the train for St.
Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3.—The train left Terre Hante fifty-six minutes late. As it moved off a hundred hands were stretched upwards and the owners sought to follow the train, many climbing to the rails and clamoring for the coveted grasp. "No," said the president, "I will not shake hands from a moving train: some of you will get killed or hurt. I want no such responsibility."

There were bonfires, torch and Chinese lantern displays and brass band serenades at all the stations between Terre Hante and St. Louis. It was not intended that any stops should be made, but the engine seemed to need water or oil at very short intervals and wherever a stop was made a multitude was found in waiting. At Edinburg a platform ten by twelve feet gave way and forty people disappeared. Their fall was not more than two or three feet and as far as could be seen or heard no one was hurt.

The president arrived at East St.
Louis at 11:45, and alighted at the eastern abutment of the bridge, where he was met by the citizens' committee. The dungeon walls kept out the crowd and gave ample space for the party to get into the carriages without a crush.
Mayor Francis accompanied the president and wife, and with a guard of twenty police the party started across the bridge at a brisk trot.

At Vandeventer place, before the mansion of Mayor Francis, where the president and Mrs. Cleveland are quietly resting, a crowd collected early in the morning, to catch a glimpse of the city's guests. Shortly after 10 o'clock on Sunday morning Mr. Cleveland and his wife, accompanied by Mayor Francis and wife, appeared and were driven to the Washington avenue Presbyterian church. In the street and near the church many people had assembled, but a way was easily made through the crowd, and as the party passed to the door of the church the spectators uncovered their heads, but made no other demonstration. The auditorium of the church was crowded, and as the president passed down the aisle many of the congregation arose. A pew in the front center of the auditorium was accorded them. After the services President and Mrs. Cleveland were driven to Mayor Francis' residence where they dined and in the afternoon they took a drive.

Until this morning the president has been the guest of Mayor Francis, but to-day and to-morrow he belongs to the people. Fairer weather could not be asked. Everywhere along the line of the president's ride to the fair grounds the sidewalks are crowded to their utmost capacity. The president's carriage was drawn by four black horses and followed by five other carriages, provided for his traveling company and the local committee in charge. They reached the Francis mansion a few minutes before 10 o'clock and at 10:15 the President and Mrs. Cleveland appeared at the door of the mansion and were applauded by a crowd of ladies and children that had gathered in the park in front of the residence. There was a noticeable absence of men and the dresses of the people indicated a preponderance of the better classes. Major C. C. Rainwater entered the carriage with the president and his wife and in a few minutes they were moving briskly toward the fair grounds, escorted by a squad of mounted police and the citizens' committee in carriages. Hundreds of vehicles crowded with people waited on Grand avenue and joined the line, which was strung along the avenue for more than a mile. There was no noise along the route, except the clatter of the horse's hoofs on the road and the tramp of thousands of feet on the walks. No mishap occurred to mar the pleasant morning drive, and at 10:45 the party arrived at the gate of the fair grounds.

Arriving at the grounds the president made a speech eulogistic of the resources of St. Louis and paid a compliment to the thrift and energy of her people.

A SON'S CRIME.

The Dead Body of a Wealthy Lady Found in the Woods—Her Eldest Son Said to be the Murderer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—At the village of Islip, on Long Island, yesterday, a resident going through the woods, north of town, discovered a mutilated body of a woman half hidden in a clump of bushes.
The body was recognized as that of Mrs.
Francis Hawkins, a wealthy widow.
Suspicion points to F. A. B. Hawkins, the dead lady's eldest son, as the murderer. Mrs. Hawkins was reading in her parlor at 9 o'clock on Saturday night, when her two sons went out. The elder son hired a horse and buggy a few minutes later.

He returned to the stable with the buggy at 11 o'clock that night. On Sunday it was discovered by the hired hands that there was blood on the floor, where the buggy had stood and it was found the cushion of the buggy was saturated with blood and that the bottom of the wagon was also soaked with it. When Hawkins' bed room was examined a quantity of blood stained clothing was discovered hidden away in a trunk.

THE B. & O.

The Railroad People Refuse to Put up any More Money to Run the Telegraph Company.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A Baltimore special says: "It is authoritatively stated that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad people have at last refused to put up any more money to run the Telegraph company and Friday saw the last financial connection between the two concerns. The railroad people have formally notified the officials of the telegraph company that on and after October 1 they need not expect any assistance from them. A general pruning of salaries was inaugurated."

Knights of Labor.

At a gathering of prominent Knights of Labor to-day John W. Hayes, the secretary of the general executive board, said "It is quite generally understood that the order of Knights of Labor is in a much poorer condition than a year ago, financially and otherwise. This is a mistake. We are in a better condition this year and the general secretary's report shows there are 560,000 in the organization and every one in good standing.
This will be a much better showing than last year."

Death from Tight Lacing.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—A genuine case of death produced by tight lacing occurred here, and the facts were developed at the coroner's inquest to-day.
Bertha Oppenheimer, a woman, fainting in a theater on Thursday night. On Friday she died suddenly. It was tel-lified at the coroner's inquest that Bertha had thought her waist not shapely enough, so to reduce herself she had laced very tight. This brought on heart failure, and finally resulted in death.

The Louisville Exposition.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 3.—The Southern exposition, or more properly speaking, the Southern imposition, closed its doors Saturday night forever.
At a meeting of the board of directors this evening it was decided, on account of the bad weather and poor attendance, to declare the exposition of 1887 at an end until further notice, which means until eternity.

eration, $35,000.

Little Helen.

Little Helen, 3 years old, cut her thumb; she kept very quiet about it until it began to bleed, then she screamed: "Oh, mamma, mamma!
come quick, the gravy's all a-running out!"

The same little girl, with her papa, mamma, and little brothers, was spending one summer at her grandpa's. One day at dinner, grandpa, having somewhat larger family than usual, was somewhat absent-minded and waited on all except Helen. She sat quietly back in her chair and said very demurely, "Poor little girl! Poor little Helen!"

A BAD DEPUTY.

He Shoots a Prominent Business Man for Refusing to Let His Wife Have Groceries.

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 3.—Late Saturday evening Ben F. Keagans, the deputy sheriff of Harris county, shot and killed John Millenger, of the firm of M. Millenger & Bro., one of the leading business concerns of Houston. The shooting resulted from a quarrel arising from a refusal to let Keagans' wife have a supply of groceries.

A CATHOLIC DAY.

Dedication of St. Paul's New Church and a Lecture by Hon. P.
S. O'Rourke.

St. Paul's Catholic church was dedicated yesterday morning with impressive ceremonies in the presence of a vast concourse of people. After the pen-picture of the handsome house of worship Saturday, the edifice needs no mention to-day.

Rev. Bishop Dwenger, with a retinue of clergymen, blessed the church and then the distinguished prelate of the Fort Wayne diocese celebrated pontifical high mass, assisted by Vicar General J. H. Brammer, Chancellor J. F.
Lang, Rev. J. H. Oechtering and T. M.
O'Leary. Rev. A. J. Thiele, of Chicago, and a distinguished priest, preached the principal sermon in the German tongue and after mass Bishop Dwenger spoke briefly in English with force and eloquence, while the music on the occasion was very fine, the Keitz band assisting the choir and the great congregation joining in the closing psalm.

The procession of Catholic societies, under Grand Marshal George Fox, was a magnificent pageant and only surpassed by the parade on the occasion of the orphan asylum.

The parade announced for the afternoon in honor of the pope's jubilee, was omitted, owing to the impassable condition of the streets, but owing to the neglect to announce its abandonment in the newspapers, many people awaited its coming for hours, much to their chagrin.

In the evening Hon. P. S. O'Rourke addressed quite a large and intelligent assembly at Library hall. The lecture was by request of the Catholic Knights and Sir Knights Ryan, Gilmartin and Baker occupied seats on the stage.

Mr. O'Rourke, with a great deal of logic, made a forcible exposition of the relation of the Catholic church and its communicants to the government and institutions of America, insisting that one could not be a good Catholic and not a good citizen, with all the patriotism and ardor that the idea conveys.

His arraignment of socialism and the commune was decidedly forcible, as was his explanation of the equality of mankind.

He took occasion to puncture the views of the rich, the social cravings for a position in society. He also paid his respects to modern aristocracy, closing with a compliment to honest toil, clean character and self-sustaining intelligence, three gifts that give any man or woman a place in society that gold can not buy.

Mr. O'Rourke made a plea for the Catholic Knights and said good night to a pleased audience.

A LIVELY CHASE.

Ransacking Manufactories and Invading Railroad Depots and the News of the Day Captured.

William Glenn, the Pittsburg engineer is now improving quite rapidly.

The recent rains injured the passenger business of the Wabash to St. Louis.

The Horton Manufacturing company is building a two story addition to their works.

Ernest Cramer has resigned his position at the Bass machine shops and will engage in other business.

Henry Bittle, of the Olds wheel works, is rejoicing over the arrival of a sweet girl baby at his home.

The Pittsburg shop is making arrangements to place in position the new boiler for the machine department.

The iron columns for Tony Trentman's new business building on Calhoun street are furnished by the Fort Wayne Iron works.

Mr. William Nolan, a machinist in the Stony Island shops at South Chicago, is in the city visiting his parents on Lafayette street.

The building of the Hotel Wayne on Columbia street is progressing rapidly.
A force of new carpenters went to work this morning.

James Boone, formerly master mechanic of the Pittsburg company at this point, was in the city yesterday meeting his many old friends.

F. H. Finks, the popular foreman at the Bass works, is a member of the Catholic Knights, and participated in the parade yesterday.

Ed. Challenger, the clerk in the Pittsburg boiler shop, was at Maples yesterday, with his family, passing the Sunday with friends and relatives.

Anthony Evans had his finger injured in the machinery at the Bass works on Saturday. He quit for that day but resumed work again this morning.

Henry Becker, the traveling agent for the Olds works, was attracted to the Baptist church last night to listen to the sermon of Rev. Northrup, to the traveling men.

Blackstone Scott, a passenger conductor on the Cleveland and Pittsburg road, who has been in the city for several days visiting friends, returned to his home at Pittsburg last evening.

James Hewes, the foreman of the boiler department of the Pittsburg shop, who has been on the sick list for some time, was able to be out yesterday, but has not resumed his position in the shops.

James Woolf, a machinist in the Pittsburg shop, is confined to his home with a severe and dangerous case of rheumatism. He has suffered considerably with it of late and it is feared that he will not recover from his present attack.

Henry Beartch, a genial employe at the Olds works, was soon hunting a night or two ago. His dog treed something and Henry out the tree down, only to find that the game he expected to get was a cat that belonged to a neighboring farmer.

The claim agents of several of the Indiana roads are now engaged in settling the damages from fire to property along their roads, which was occasioned by the long continued drought. The recent rains have been fortunate for the roads, as many parties who placed their damages high are obliged to reduce them largely, the grass in many places looking greener and better than at any time for years. It is the most trouble to settle with parties who had haystacks or fences burned, while some parties would be glad to get $8 per ton for their hay if they sold it, when it is burned up they want at the rate of $20 per ton. And old fences which were about ready to fall down are valued at higher figures than new fences would cost.

Raskin on Kingsley.

Mr. Raskin has written the following letter in reply to a village librarian who called his attention to the curious fact that he and Kingsley, so widely different, were the chief favorites of local readers:

"That two such opposite authors should take hold of the same minds is entirely probable. If opposites, they are both part of the world and its sky.
Kingsley stepped westward in the Yankee way, I stepped eastward, thinking the old star stands where it used to.
There was much in Kingsley that was delightful to raw thinkers, and men generally remain raw in this climate.
He was always extremely civil to me and to Carlyle, but he waited in a most cordially way when we had the Eyre battle to fight. He was a flamed, partly rotted, partly distorted person, but he may be read with advantage by numbers, who could not understand a word of me, because I speak of things they never saw or attended to. I extremely dislike Kingsley's tragedy myself, but if other people like hearing of girls being devoured or torn to pieces, that is their affair."

MONDAY, OCT. 3, 1887.

PROBABLY the only bootblack who ever voluntarily gave his parents the money he earned is Sammy Hiller, of Toledo. The little fellow often goes to distant towns and his mother most of the time does not know where he is. While Sammy was at the National Drill at Washington his mother was surprised to receive an express package from him containing $21.

THREE children, the eldest 12 and the youngest 1, found a horse caught in a railroad bridge near Piedmont, Mo. It was toward evening and a passenger train was soon due; so the little ones made a small bonfire of brush on the track, and when the train came in sight waved burning branches. The engineer stopped the engine, the horse was removed, and the train went on.

THE New York Central, Hudson River and Port Orange Railroad Company is the very long name of a very short railroad some eight miles from Albany. Its main track is less than one mile in length—in fact, but 3,168 feet, to be accurate. The rolling stock consists of one locomotive, costing $2,500, and one passenger coach, which is leased. The cost of construction is given as being $1,200,000. Gross earnings from operation for year ending September 30, 1886, were $2,280; operating expenses for same period, $2,224.21, leaving a surplus of $55.79. The wages and salaries paid amount to $1,225.68 per annum. The cost of fuel for the locomotive was only $36.50; general office expenses and supplies, $4.50.

ADELAIDE MARTIN, a plump passenger on the steamship Nevada from Liverpool, said that she had no dutiable goods in her trunk. Miss Martin wore a bustle that looked like a barrel. She tried to bribe the customs inspector with $20, and on examination the bustle panned out as follows: Five pieces of black lace trimming, 5 lace collars, 2 packages of hooks and eyes, 1 watch, 5 brooches, 2 pair of bracelets in handsome cases. Miss Martin's trunk came next. In them were found: Twenty-four pieces worsted binding, 3 pieces cotton braid, 30 pieces silk braid, 12 pieces silk ribbon, 2 pieces black lace, 3 pieces lace trimming, 170 yards silk, 8 yards velvet, 50 yards mixed silk and cotton goods, 200 pair shields, 2 pair men's socks, and 1 table-spread.

A FARMER named Coroner of Roane County, West Virginia, has invented a new plan to catch squirrels, which has proven a great success. He has a large cornfield which borders on the woods and which the squirrels have almost devastated during the last season. Having hit upon a plan he first watched the animals and found that when they made a raid and retired they retreated to the woods almost invariably along one particular line of fence. Having learned this fact, Coroner covered the top rail of that line of fence with tar, putting on a heavy coat. This he did in the evening, and in the morning when he went to the field he saw a long line of squirrels running along the fence toward the woods. They succeeded in clearing the fence, but when they struck the tar the leaves and sticks stuck to their feet so badly that they could not climb the trees nor run very far even on the leaves. The first capture amounted to twenty-seven squirrels, and within a week Coroner had killed and captured over 100 squirrels by his unique device.

IGNATIUS DONNELLY, the author of "Atlantis" and "Ragnarok," and whose forthcoming book on the authorship of Shakespeare's plays is the talk of the literary world, has a charming little wife, says the Nashville American, who is very much attached to him, and who is brilliant in social life. Mrs. Donnelly was at a Northern lake resort during the summer, and a week or ten days ago two gentlemen came in and occupied the same table at breakfast. The Donnelly Shakespearean theory came up, and one of the gentlemen asked the other: "Who is this man Donnelly?" "Oh," returned the other, carelessly, "he's a crank by profession; he wrote 'Atlantis' and 'Ragnarok.'" The lady said nothing. That evening, however, in the parlor, the gentleman who made the remark was introduced to Mrs. Donnelly, but her name escaped his ear. As an excuse for finding out the name he brought the conversation round so that the question could be put as to her husband's occupation. The little lady's eyes sparkled, as she modestly answered: "He is a crank by profession; he wrote 'Atlantis' and 'Ragnarok.'" The gentleman recognized the expression, and his feelings may better be imagined than described. He did not prolong the conversation any longer than he could politely lead up to the remark: "Good evening."

A well-known citizen of Lancaster, Pa., Mr. L. B. Keifer, writes: "Having a sprained leg of almost thirty days' standing, and after trying half a dozen advertised preparations in the market without satisfactory results, I was advised to try Salvation Oil, did so, and in less than three days my leg was all right again. It did the work."

His Editorial Experience.

"Gimme a case to fill for my dinner," said a dilapidated looking man, as he came into the office.
"Hard luck this summer?"
"You bet. Just walked into town. Say, reckon I can get a chance to sub on something a few days?"
"Oh, yes, good chance."
"I ain't had no luck since I had a paper of my own when I first struck the Territory."

"What made you quit the business?"
"Monkey-work. You see there was a prominent citizen of the place and a heavy advertiser named Beasley. He went East to get a complete new set of bar fixtures for his place of business. One day while he was gone another prominent citizen, who took six copies of the paper and sent them to his friends, whose name was McCann, was seen out riding with Beasley's wife. I thought it would be thunderin' smart to write it up an' boom the street sales of the paper, though there'd never been a copy sold on the streets since it was started. So I wrote a column an' a couple of stickful awful sensational an' smart, an' then went an' set it. Just fore I slid it into the forms I kinder got lookin' at it an' wonderin' I thought I'd get somebody else's opinion. So I showed the proof to Jim Tanglewood. Jim read it and laugh'd an' snorted till I thought he would bust, and then says he, 'chuck it in.' Then I let Hon. Clark look at it an' he couldn't more'n half read it, he tickled him so. The he looked up an' says: 'O' boss, that's blame good—say it in.' I showed it to a lot more leavin' citizens and they all 'lowed it was a good joke on old Beasley and McCann, an' that Mrs. Beasley would be tickled most to death over it. The only thing they varied in was some said 'chuck it in,' and some, 'sock it in.' I believe, though, old man Perkins (he was the principal of the school) did say, 'shove her in.' An' Elder Blodgett (he was only a minister Sundays) said, 'young man, play it on 'em—go right ahead with your rat killin' an' I'm cussed if I don't stick part of it into my sermon next Sabbath."

"So I went back an' hung the chase 'round it and drove in the quins with the stove poker, jabbed some Dutch men into the side, an' swore a little, an' basted up the forms an' sponged off the bottom of 'em with my shirt sleeve, an' put 'em on the press. Then I planned 'em down with a piece of floorin', cussed the boy 'cause the roller wouldn't distribute, an' jerked the old lever, cussed some more when I saw the paper an' laid it on the dry goods box I used for a stone.
"Just then McCann came in an' 'lowed he'd read that funny business 'bout him. While he was gettin' through it (he read mighty slow, but a blame' sight better'n I wished he could) Jim Tanglewood dropped in an' read it like he'd never seed it before an' shook his head an' said it might be funny but he couldn't see it that way, an' he 'lowed McCann wouldn't wish he got through it. Then Hon. Clark ran through it an' looked gloomy, an' wanted to know if it was too late to take out his ad. that week. He said to stop his paper anyhow, he couldn't stand no such scandal. He reckoned McCann would rip when he got through it. Old man Perkins an' Elder Blodgett put their noses up in the air an' panted at McCann an' made big motions with their arms 'sif they were tellin' me to look out when he got through."

"Well, when I got 'bout forty papers printed—I reckon, molly the edition was half or two-thirds off—McCann got through, an' looked 'round sort of mixed-up like. 'Quite a joke on you, Colonel McCann,' says I with a smile that made me feel sick at the stomach. 'Joke, blame' it,' roared McCann, 'tryin' to make trouble 'tween me an' Beasley, hey? Then he made a break for me an' kicked me one an' he's ed me up on the forms. 'Lemme shut up the machine an' squash the infernal story in it!' he howled. But he didn't know how to turn down the frisket, an' while he was struggling with it I wiggled over an' fell through the window an' ran for the fair grounds."

"An' after I was gone McCann jes' ripped things, an' Jim, an' Hen, an' old man Perkins, an' the Elder turned in an' helped him, an' the durned fool boy stood 'round an' told 'em how they could do the most hurt. An' Mrs. Beasley showed up 'fore they got through, with a kettle of hot water which the boy directed her to throw on the rollers, so'n as I was gone, an' she couldn't do no more with it, an' then she ripped the inside all out of the dition, an' took the files to put under the carpet, an' got so tired McCann had to go home with her an' help support her."

"An' they say that when Beasley got home the next day he made 'em think they hadn't done scarcely anything. When he found there wa'n't nothin' left to rip he just put a can o' blazin' powder under the buildin', lit the fuse with his cigar an' run; an' when she went off it blowed the whole buildin' galley west."

"I never went back. I've been a tourist ever since, an' I'm goin' to stick to it. Got any tobacco?"—Dakota Bell.

Wrong

To imagine that the treatment of Constipation consists merely in unloading the bowels. The medicine must not only act as a purgative, but be a tonic as well, and not produce after its use greater costiveness. This is what Simmons Liver Regulator always does.

"As a general family remedy for Constipation, Torpid Liver, Indigestion, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced. It seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the stomach and bowels."—W. J. McLELLAN, Macon, Ga.

Believe us, when we tell you that most of the dependent feeling (the blues) is the effect of a Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Weakness of Stomach, and Nervousness. A dose of Simmons Liver Regulator invariably relieves, cures and prevents a re-occurrence.

"I find Simmons Liver Regulator, very safe, harmless and valuable family medicine, and have used it for any disorder of the system and have found it to be like a charm, and it is so that if it was used in time, it would prevent a great preventive of diseases. I have often recommended it to my friends, and shall continue to do so."—Rev. J. S. M. ROLLINS, Fairfield, Va.

Simmons Liver Regulator is given with safety and with the happiest results, in almost any ailment, to the most delicate infant as well as to the adult. For all diseases in which a laxative, alterative, or purgative is needed, it will give the most perfect satisfaction. It is the cheapest, purest and best Family Medicine in the world.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel full, languid, low-spirited, listless and indolent, and are you physically and mentally experiencing a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "grogginess," or a constant sense of the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred vision, "floating spots" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, short, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subside it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Constipation of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave malady are quite liable to set in, and sooner or later induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

CURES ALL HUMORS, from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula, Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Sores or Boils, Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eruptions rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetters, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Erysipelatous Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE." The thought, cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and healthy health will be established.

CONSUMPTION, which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terrible and fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequalled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs and kindred affections, it is efficient remedy. Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00. Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

In Memorial.

John H. Hill was born on the 4th day of February 1810, at Plymouth, England, and moved with his parents in 1818 to Quebec, Canada, where he was educated. When he was thirteen years old he went to sea with his uncle, Capt. Allen. He sailed with him to different parts of the world and was absent on his voyage for two years. After his return home his father moved to Cincinnati, Ohio, and for three years young John had charge of a tobacco plantation at Louisville, Ky., and in 1831, he went to Niagara Falls to take the business management of the Commercial hotel at that place.

After this he held different positions of trust at Toronto, Hamilton and Quebec. He finally went to Detroit, Mich., where he took the business management for his father in the building of several church edifices, and afterwards entered the service of the Michigan Stage Co., at Detroit, having charge of their office.

For four years he had charge of an Indian trading post on the Mississippi river in this state and moving back to Michigan again he was made deputy sheriff and coroner of Wayne county. While holding this position there was a very close contest between the whig and democratic parties. Mr. Hill was the leader of the democratic forces and Zack Chandler the leader of the whig forces. On election day a certain voter presented himself at the polls. Both men importuned him for his vote but the voter said: "I will vote with my friend Hill." This so enraged Chandler that he immediately turned on Mr. Hill and knocked him down. This vote, however, carried the election for the democrats by one majority, made the state legislature democratic by the same majority and sent Mr. Cass to the United States senate. After the election Senator Cass rewarded Mr. Hill by securing him the appointment of inspector of customs at Detroit.

In 1849 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Lark, of Chatham, Canada and in 1850 he moved to Fort Wayne where he has lived ever since. He served as deputy sheriff of Allen county for a while and in 1853 he took the position of bookkeeper in the wholesale grocery store of George Miller. His wife died in 1864 and in 1877 Mr. Hill took an extended European tour on a visit to relatives. His death occurred last Thursday evening and he was buried on Sunday. He leaves two children Mrs. Dr. S. C. Metcalf and Mrs. Joseph B. Saunders who mourn the death of a loving and devoted father. The funeral occurred yesterday and was largely attended.

THE CRITERION.

Opera Singers Suing for Their Salaries and Seizing the Baggage.

Week before last the Criterion company sang the light operas at the Academy and lived on the plaudits of a generous public. But opera singers get hungry and thirst for gold like ordinary mortals.

This telegram from Columbus, Ohio, tells their tale of woe: "The Criterion Opera company, under the management of Low Walters and Milton Aborn, closed a week's engagement at the Grand Opera house Saturday night. Shortly after midnight, as their baggage was being loaded for the depot, it was attached by Special Constable Smith on a writ sworn out by Hugh Chatham, a member of the company, for $43 claimed to be due him as salary. Miss Clara Throppe, one of the leading ladies, sued yesterday for $65 salary due her, but the attachment was not issued, Walters and Aborn satisfying her for the time being. Last night she was unable to get her money, and was raising merry hades in 'Squire McFadden's' office, but refused to have the company's baggage levied on to secure her claim. The company go from here to Toledo, but at 1 a. m. their baggage was still in possession of the constable."

Her Atonement.

Anson Pond's great work "Her Atonement" will be presented at the Temple to-morrow evening, with their own special scenery, band and orchestra of ten pieces. The play is entirely new to Fort Wayne. It is a drama, and is considered the strongest American drama ever written. A well selected company from the east, which is as follows: Martha West (an unfortunate).....Gussie DeForest. Mrs. Morton.....Bessie Clifton. Nora (a servant).....Blanche Sherwood. Little Rose (Martha West's child).....Little Valler Egar. Col. Swift (a soldier and a lawyer).....J. Winston Murray. James Morton (a hero).....Frank Karrington. Charles LeRoy (a libertine).....W. D. Chaffin. John Doolittle (a detective).....W. M. Dell. Louis Pretreux (a French Vallet).....Chas. Hayne. Henry Wright (one of the forces).....Geo. Kayton. Judge Phillips (the district attorney).....Frank Sellers. Patrick Mulligan (the "original").....J. H. Ryan. Johnny Springfield (the bootblack).....Miss Jean Delmar.

A Card From Editor Mitchell. Editor SENTINEL. The account that appeared in Saturday's SENTINEL, of the assault on myself by Alf. Irey and crowd contains a tissue of misrepresentation. It is not true that I fired a revolver in the air, neither is it true that I care for any oppressive names which my enemies may call me, and which a portion of the daily press reproduce—only that some of them had to pay fines for their fun, only this, I desire at present to say through THE SENTINEL.

JAS. MITCHELL, Publisher Dispatch.

An Irishman was asked for his marriage certificate. He slowly lifted his hat, revealing a large scar on the head, evidently done by a flat iron. This evidence was to the point. Our certificates are the praises of those who have experienced wonderful cures by the use of Dr. Bull's Oough Syrup.

More than 2,000 bottles will be sold for the St. Paul M. E. church fair.

LAW AND ORDER.

The Public Meeting Held This Morning to Discuss the Subject.

The ministers of the city churches and a number of prominent citizens met this morning at the Berry St. M. E. church, with the Citizens Reform League, to discuss and take some action relative to the enforcement of the laws of the city. There were about fifty present in all and among the ministers present were: Revs. J. C. Cromer, F. J. Browne, C. W. Wilkinson, T. J. Bacher, J. M. Fulton, D. C. Woolpert, J. P. Stewart and Rev. Virgil.

The meeting was an earnest and enthusiastic one and it was decided to commence immediately a line of action looking to the enforcement of the 11 o'clock and Sunday laws, in particular, and all the laws of the city in general. The plan proposed to be pursued in this law and order movement will not be given publicity at present, but it might be said that saloon keepers and all violators of the law will hear something drop before many days, and nights have passed over their heads.

The citizens who composed the meeting are determined that the laws on the statute books in regard to the liquor traffic shall be enforced. If they are not, they propose to see who is to blame for it. They are in earnest in the movement and it is probable that the interest that is now being manifested on the subject will result in creating a public sentiment that will do much good in checking the violation of the laws in this city.

Supreme Court Cases.

The following decisions of the state supreme court are of local interest: John W. Ront vs. Lindley M. Ninde. Adams C. C. Certiorari denied. Elliott J. J. Without an order of the trial court a writ can not issue to the clerk from this court directing him to certify a rule of the trial court except in a case when the bill of exceptions contains the rule.

John Kroese et al. vs. Marion Walker et al. Allen S. C. Dismissed under rule 14.

India and China, as a San Francisco contemporary remarks, are the best customers for silver, of which they have been very large buyers for many years. At first thought one is apt to wonder what becomes of it all, as they seldom, or never, sell; but when viewed in the light of a dense population, the millions upon millions sent them are readily accounted for, taking into consideration the natural shrinkage by wear and loss, and large amounts annually used for manufacturing purposes. China has a population of over 400,000,000, and India and the Straits over 200,000,000; nearly one-half of the inhabitants of the world. If the United States, with a population of about 60,000,000, and using paper, gold, and silver currency, absorbed $25,000,000 per annum in silver within the past nine years, it ought not to be a difficult matter for 600,000,000 people with no currency but silver to take more than double that quantity per annum. For the past twenty years the shipments of silver from Great Britain to China and India have varied from $3,200,000 in 1867 to $83,000,000 in 1879; but the past ten years the sum varied from $20,000,000 to $40,000,000. London and San Francisco are the real competitors in the silver trade with these countries.

The state board of health has decided that the railroads must put smoke consumers on all passenger locomotives. This order will apply to all railroads crossing or doing business inside the state. It is a well known fact that smoke from the engines greatly aggravates all throat and lung troubles, besides being objectionable to these diseases or not. The board holds that the time has come when the railroads are abundantly able to care for the comfort and health of their patrons, in every way possible. Accordingly with this object in view the board will soon issue an order for all Indiana roads to equip their passenger locomotives with smoke consumers.

Elk River Railroad Company, Notice of Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Elk River railroad company, will be held at the passenger station of the company, at Butler, in the state of Indiana, on Wednesday, the second day of November, A. D. 1887, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, for the election of directors for the ensuing year, and the transaction of such other business as may legally come before the meeting.

P. W. SMITH, Secretary.

PROF. MARIANO SEMOLA, the famous Italian physician and scientist, who was present at the recent Medical Congress in Washington, created considerable sensation by his attack upon the Koch theory of microbes as a cause of disease. The position which he took was that in most cases microbes were the effects, not the causes, of disease, and that the only way in which it could be established that they were the causes would be to reproduce the disease artificially by them. Upon this point he said: "The experiments made have not given any satisfactory results except in carbuncles and tuberculosis. Then to conclude hastily that this or that microbe is such and such a disease is the cause is to but ignore or not aside the experimental method. The demonstration which the experimental method demands in this case would be complicated, because we would not only have to know that the microbe existed, but we would have to know what was the condition of the blood necessary to the culture of that particular microbe, and science tells us that, for the present, this is a problem we cannot solve." If this be so, then away goes the theory of bacteriology. If more theories could go with it, and medical science could be content with resting squarely upon demonstration, there would be less jumping at conclusions and more working upon the lines of actual experiment. Means like poor humanity can go on eating, drinking, and breathing microbes by millions without fear as to the result, until science can demonstrate the beneficial effects of these microscopic bacteria. When they can be demonstrated as causes of disease and bacteriology can counteract them, it will be time to give them the attention that is due.

A ROYAL WELCOME!

Is Given the President and His Wife as They Journey Westward—The Reception at St. Louis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 3.—Two or three thousand persons assembled at the station at Green Castle, and paid their respects vociferously as the train ran past at a slow rate. A long train load of returning G. A. R. men stood upon the siding, the passengers in which crowded its platforms and windows and waved and shouted salutes.

THANKS HAVEN, Oct. 3.—At Terre Haute station a crowd of several thousand persons thronged the track and platforms, and made the disembarkment of the party difficult. The president was received by Senator Voorhees, Ex-Secretary Thompson and the committee, and with his companions was driven to the normal school building, in front of which a stand had been erected for the arrival of the reception. It was dark before the procession reached the stand, and the time for the departure of the train had already past. The great square contained as nearly as could be estimated by the glare of the electric light more than 20,000 persons. Senator Voorhees called the assembly to order, asked for silence and announced Mr. Richard Thompson, who had come to Terre Haute with the president. Mr. Thompson, in the course of his speech of welcome dwelt briefly upon the resources of the Mississippi valley to which the president was making his first visit. The president replied briefly as usual and the visitors were escorted again to carriage and as soon as these could be freed from the multitude, drove rapidly to the depot and took the train for St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3.—The train left Terre Haute fifty-six minutes late. As it moved off a hundred hands were stretched upwards and the owners sought to follow the train, many climbing to the rails and clamoring for the coveted grasp. "No," said the president, "I will not shake hands from a moving train; some of you will get killed or hurt. I want no such responsibility." There were buffets, torch and Chinese lantern displays and brass band serenades at all the stations between Terre Haute and St. Louis. It was not intended any stops should be made, but the engine seemed to need water or oil at very short intervals and wherever a stop was made a multitude was found in waiting. At Edinburg a platform ten by twelve feet gave way and forty people disappeared. Their fall was not more than two or three feet and as far as could be seen or heard no one was hurt.

The president arrived at East St. Louis at 11:45, and alighted at the eastern abutment of the bridge, where he was met by the citizens' committee. The downtown walls kept out the crowd and gave ample space for the party to get into the carriages without a crush. Mayor Francis accompanied the president and wife, and with a guard of twenty police the party started across the bridge at a brisk trot. At Vandenberg place, before the mansion of Mayor Francis, where the president and Mrs. Cleveland are quietly resting, a crowd collected early in the morning, to catch a glimpse of the city's guests. Shortly after 10 o'clock on Sunday morning Mr. Cleveland and his wife, accompanied by Mayor Francis and wife, appeared and were driven to the Washington avenue Presbyterian church. In the street and near the church many people had assembled, but a way was easily made through the crowd, and as the party passed to the door of the church the spectators uncovered their heads, but made no other demonstration. The auditorium was crowded, and as the president passed down the side many of the congregation arose. A pew in the front center of the auditorium was accorded them. After the services President and Mrs. Cleveland were driven to Mayor Francis' residence where they dined and in the afternoon they took a drive.

Until this morning the president has been the guest of Mayor Francis, but to-day and to-morrow he belongs to the people. Fairer weather could not be asked. Everywhere along the line of the president's ride to the fair grounds the sidewalks are crowded to their utmost capacity. The president's carriage was drawn by four black horses and followed by five other carriages, provided for his traveling company and the local committee in charge. They reached the Francis mansion a few minutes before 10 o'clock and at 10:15 the President and Mrs. Cleveland appeared at the door of the mansion and were applauded by a crowd of ladies and children that had gathered in the park in front of the residence. There was a noticeable absence of men and the dresses of the people indicated a preponderance of the better classes. Mayor C. C. Hawwater entered the carriage with the president and his wife and in a few minutes they were moving briskly toward the fair grounds, escorted by a squad of mounted police and the citizens' committee in charge. Hundreds of vehicles crowded with people waited on Grand avenue and joined the line, which was strong along the avenue for more than a mile. There was no noise along the route, except the clatter of the horse's hoofs on the road and the tramp of thousands of feet on the walks. No mishap occurred to mar the pleasant morning drive, and at 10:45 the party arrived at the gate of the fair grounds. Arriving at the grounds the president made a speech eulogistic of the resources of St. Louis and paid a compliment to the thrift and energy of her people.

A SON'S CRIME.

The Dead Body of a Wealthy Lady Found in the Woods—Her Eldest Son Said to be the Murderer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—At the village of Iship, on Long Island, yesterday, a resident going through the woods, north of town, discovered a mutilated body of a woman half hidden in a clump of bushes. The body was recognized as that of Mrs. Francis Hawkins, a wealthy widow. Suspicion points to F. Ashbury Hawkins, the dead lady's eldest son, as the murderer. Mrs. Hawkins was reading in her parlor at 9 o'clock on Saturday night, when her two sons went out. The elder son hired a horse and buggy a few minutes later.

He returned to the stable with the buggy at 11 o'clock that night. On Sunday it was discovered by the hired hands that there was blood on the floor, where the buggy had stood and it was found the cushion of the buggy was saturated with blood and that the bottom of the wagon was also soaked with it. When Hawkins' bed room was examined a quantity of blood stained clothing was discovered hidden away in a trunk.

A general pruning of salaries was inaugurated."

Knight of Labor.

At a gathering of prominent Knights of Labor to-day John W. Hayes, the secretary of the general executive board, said "It is quite generally understood that the order of Knights of Labor is in a much poorer condition than a year ago, financially and otherwise. This is a mistake. We are in a better condition this year and the general secretary's report shows there are 500,000 in the organization and every one in good standing. This will be a much better showing than last year."

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 3.—The Southern exposition, or more properly speaking, the Southern exposition, closed its doors Saturday night forever. At a meeting of the board of directors this evening it was decided, on account of the bad weather and poor attendance, to declare the exposition of 1887 at an end until further notice, which means until eternity.

Little Helen.

LITTLE Helen, 3 years old, cut her thumb; she kept very quiet about it until it began to bleed, then she screamed: "Oh, mamma, mamma, come quick, the gray's all a running out!"

The same little girl, with her paps, mamma, and little brothers, was spending one summer at her grandparents. One day at dinner, grandma, having some larger family than usual, was somewhat absent-minded and called on all except Helen. She sat quietly back in her chair and said very demurely, "Poor little girl! Poor little Helen!" — Babylund.

WESTERN railway managers have come to the conclusion that railway building in the West has been greatly overdone. The prospect now is that comparatively few lines of new construction will be undertaken next year.

A BAD DEPUTY.

He Shoots a Prominent Business Man for Refusing to Let His Wife Have Groceries.

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 3.—Late Saturday evening Ben F. Keagans, the deputy Sheriff of Harris county, shot and killed John Millinger, of the firm of M. Millinger & Bro., one of the leading business concerns of Houston. The shooting resulted from a quarrel arising from a refusal to let Keagans' wife have a supply of groceries.

A CATHOLIC DAY.

Dedication of St. Paul's New Church and a Lecture by Hon. P. S. O'Rourke.

St. Paul's Catholic church was dedicated yesterday morning with impressive ceremonies in the presence of a vast concourse of people. After the pictures of the handsome house of worship Saturday, the edifice needs no mention to-day.

Rev. Bishop Dwenger, with a retinue of clergymen, blessed the church and then the distinguished prelate of the Fort Wayne diocese celebrated pontifical high mass, assisted by Vice-Chancellor J. H. Branner, Chancellor J. F. Lang, Rev. J. H. Oechtering and T. M. O'Leary. Rev. A. J. Thiele, of Chicago, and a distinguished priest, preached the principal sermon in the German tongue and after mass Bishop Dwenger spoke briefly in English with force and eloquence, while the music on the occasion was very fine, the Kelets hand assisting the choir and the great congregation joining in the closing psalm.

The procession of Catholic societies, under Grand Marshal George Fox, was a magnificent pageant and only surpassed by the parade on the occasion of the orphan asylum.

The parade announced for the afternoon in honor of the pope's jubilee, was omitted, owing to the impassable condition of the streets, but owing to the neglect to announce its abandonment in the newspapers, many people awaited its coming for hours, much to their chagrin.

In the evening Hon. P. S. O'Rourke addressed quite a large and intelligent assembly at Liberty hall. The lecture was by request of the Catholic Knights and Sir Knights Ryan, Gilmartin and Baker occupied seats on the stage.

Mr. O'Rourke, with a great deal of logic, made a forcible exposition of the relation of the Catholic church and its communicants to the government and institutions of America, insisting that one could not be a good Catholic and not a good citizen, with all the patriotism and ardor that the idea conveyed.

His arraignment of socialism and the commune was decidedly forcible, as was his explanation of the equality of mankind.

He took occasion to puncture the views of the rich, the social cravings for a position in society. He also paid his respects to modern aristocracy, closing with a compliment to honest toil, clean character and self-sustaining intelligence, three gifts that give any man or woman a place in society that gold can not buy.

Mr. O'Rourke made a plea for the Catholic Knights and said good night to a pleased audience.

A LIVELY CHASE.

Hawking Manufactures and Intruding Railroad Depots and the News of the Day Captured.

William Glenn, the Pittsburg engineer is now improving quite rapidly. The recent rains injured the passenger business of the Wabash to St. Louis.

The Horton Manufacturing company is building a two story addition to their works.

Ernest Cramer has resigned his position at the Bass machine shops and will engage in other business.

Henry Little, of the Olds wheel works, is enjoying over the arrival of a sweet girl baby at his home.

The Pittsburg shop is making arrangements to place in position the new boiler for the machine department.

The iron columns for Tony Trentman's new business building on Calhoun street are furnished by the Fort Wayne Iron works.

Mr. William Nolan, a machinist in the Stony Island shops at South Chicago, is in the city visiting his parents on Lafayette street.

The building of the Hotel Wayne on Columbus street is progressing rapidly. A force of new carpenters went to work this morning.

James Boone, formerly master mechanic of the Pittsburg company at this point, was in the city yesterday meeting his many old friends.

P. H. Finke, the popular foreman at the Bass works, is a member of the Catholic Knights, and participated in the parade yesterday.

Ed. Challenger, the clerk in the Pittsburg boiler shop, was at Maple yesterday, with his family, passing the Sunday with friends and relatives.

Anthony Evans had his finger injured in the machinery at the Bass works on Saturday. He quit for that day but resumed work again this morning.

Henry Becker, the traveling agent for the Olds works, was attracted to the Baptist church last night to listen to the sermon of Rev. Northrup, to the traveling men.

Blackstone Scott, a passenger conductor on the Cleveland and Pittsburg road, who has been in the city for several days visiting friends, returned to his home at Pittsburg last evening.

James Hewes, the foreman of the boiler department of the Pittsburg shop, who has been on the sick list for some time, was able to be out yesterday, but has not resumed his position in the shops.

James Wolf, a machinist in the Pittsburg shop, is confined to his home with a severe and dangerous case of rheumatism. He has suffered considerably with it of late and it is feared that he will not recover from his present attack.

Henry Beatch, a genial employee at the Olds works, was soon hunting a night or two ago. His dog treed something and Henry cut the tree down, only to find that the game he expected to get was a cat that belonged to a neighboring farmer.

The claim agents of several of the Indiana roads are now engaged in settling the damages from fires to property along their roads, which was occasioned by the long continued drought. The recent rains have been fortunate for the roads, as many parties who placed their damages high are obliged to reduce them largely, the grass in many places looking greener and better than at any time for years. It is the most trouble to settle with parties who had haystacks or fences burned, while some parties would be glad to get $8 per ton for their hay if they sold it, when it is burned up. And old fences which were about ready to fall down are valued at higher figures than new fences would cost.

Ruskin on Kingsley.

Mr. Ruskin has written the following letter in reply to a village librarian who called his attention to the curious fact that he and Kingsley, so widely different, were the chief favorites of local readers:

"That two such opposite authors should take hold of the same minds is entirely probable. If opposites, they are both part of the world and its sky. Kingsley stopped westward in the Yankee way. I stopped eastward, thinking the old star stands where it used to. There was much in Kingsley that was delightful to raw thinkers, and men generally remain raw in this climate. He was always extremely civil to me and to Charles, but he waited in a most cowardly way when we had the Eyre battle to fight. He was a flamed, partly rotten, partly distorted person, but he may be read with advantage by numbers, who could not understand a word of me, because I speak of things they never saw or attended to. I therefore dislike Kingsley's trashy misanthropy, but other people like hearing of girls being drowned or torn to pieces, that is their affair."

Millinery Opening.

Rev. D. C. Wolpert preached upon the Law and Order question at the Berry Street M. E. church yesterday, and several of the city officials were present. His discourse was an able and earnest one. The discussion of this question from the pulpit will do much good.

The tie was then shot off at six birds for each side. Watson and Dries killed six pigeons, Brown and Hensaker killing five. Mr. Brown missed his first bird and lost for his side. There was some money up on the side.

On last Friday evening Mr. O. P. Griffith, of Connersville, Ind., lost a very valuable diamond stud at the north depot. Mr. Griffith and his wife had been in Chicago on the extension from Connersville and returning home were spending the afternoon with their friend, Mr. S. A. Wiley, at the Muncie. About 5:20 p. m. Mr. Griffith, with his wife started for the train, which leaves at 5:30 p. m. Between then and the time the train was pulling out the stud was lost. In all probability was twisted off by some thief while getting on the train. The stud was a gift and valued at $250. Mr. Griffith will give $50 for its return.

It is currently reported that the directors of the Wabash railroad which has been in charge of Gen. McNulta as receiver for several months will soon pass into the hands of new owners. Reports from the general office in the last few months have demonstrated the fact that the road has done an immense business under his management. Already a portion of the bonded indebtedness has been paid off since he assumed control. Doubtless this return to prosperity in the incentive which urges speculation and capitalists to invest in the stock of the road. This is not the first time General McNulta has reacquired a railroad corpse.

MONDAY, OCT. 3, 1897.

PROBABLY the only bootblack who ever voluntarily gave his parents the money he earned is Sammie Miller, of Toledo. The little fellow writes to distant towns and his mother writes to the time does not know where he is. While Sammie was at the National Drill at Washington his mother was in need to receive an express package from him containing $2.00.

THREE children, the eldest 12 and the youngest 4, found a horse caught in a railroad bridge near Piedmont, Mo. It was toward evening and a passenger train was soon due; so the little ones made a small bonfire of brush on the track, and when the train came in sight waved burning branches. The engineer stopped the engine, the horse was removed, and the train went on.

THE New York Central, Hudson River and Fort Orange Railroad Company is the very long name of a very short railroad some eight miles from Albany. Its main track is less than one mile in length—in fact, but 3,164 feet, to be accurate. The rolling stock consists of one locomotive, costing $2,500, and one passenger coach, which is leased. The cost of construction is given as being $2,000. Gross earnings from operation for year ending September 30, 1896, were $2,200; operating expenses for same period, $2,224.21, leaving a surplus of $35.79. The wages and salaries paid amount to $1,255.68 per annum. The cost of fuel for the locomotive was only $3.50; general office expenses and supplies, $4.50.

ADELAIDE MARTIN, a plump passenger on the steamship Nevada from Liverpool, said that she had no doubt a gold coin for her trunk. Miss Martin wore a button that looked like a barrel. She tried to bribe the customs inspector with $20, and on examination the button panned out as follows: Five pieces of black lace trimming, 5 lace collars, 2 packages of hosiery and eyes, 1 watch, 5 brooches, 2 pair of bracelets in handsome cases. Miss Martin's trunk came next. In them were found: Twenty-four pieces worsted binding, 3 pieces cotton braid, 30 pieces silk braid, 12 pieces silk ribbon, 2 pieces black lace, 5 pieces lace trimming, 170 yards silk, 8 yards velvet, 50 yards muslin silk and cotton goods, 200 pair shawls, 2 pair men's socks, and 1 table spread.

A squirrel named Coroner of Boone County, West Virginia, has invented a new plan to catch squirrels, which has proven a great success. He has a large cornfield which borders on the woods and which the squirrels have almost devastated during the last season. Having hit upon a plan he first watched the animals and found that when they made a raid and retired they retreat to the woods almost invariably along one particular line of fence. Having learned this fact, Coroner covered the top rail of that line of fence with tar, putting on it every coat. This he did in the evening, and in the morning when he went to the field he saw a long line of a squirrel run up along the fence toward the woods. They succeeded in clearing the fence, but when they struck the tar the tar stuck to their feet so badly that they could not climb the trees nor run very far even on the leaves. The first capture amounted to twenty-seven squirrels, and within a week Coroner had killed and captured over 100 squirrels by his ingenious device.

EDWARD DONNELLY, the author of "At Antis" and "Haggarok," and whose forthcoming book on the authorship of Shakespeare's plays is the talk of the literary world, has a charming little wife, says the Nashville American, who is very much attached to him, and who is brilliant in social life. Mrs. Donnelly was at a Northern lake resort during the summer, and a week or ten days ago two gentlemen came in and occupied the same table at breakfast. The Donnelly Shakespearean theory came up, and one of the gentlemen asked the other: "Who is this man Donnelly?" "Oh," returned the other, carelessly, "he's a crank by profession," he wrote "Atlantis" and "Haggarok." The lady said nothing. That evening, however, in the parlor, the gentleman who made the remark was introduced to Mrs. Donnelly, but her name escaped his ear. As an excuse for finding out the name he brought the conversation round so that the question could be put as to her husband's occupation. The little lady's eyes sparkled, as she modestly answered: "He is a crank by profession; he wrote 'Atlantis' and 'Haggarok.'" The gentleman recognized the expression, and his feelings may better be imagined than described. He did not prolong the conversation any longer than he could politely lead up to the remark.

A well-known citizen of Lancaster, Pa., Mr. L. B. Keifer, writes: Having sprained my leg of almost thirty days' standing, and after trying half a dozen advertised preparations in the market without satisfactory results, I was advised to try Halverson's Oil, and in less than three days my leg was all right again. It did the work.

His Editorial Experience.

"Gimme a case to fill for my dinner," said a disappointed looking man, as he came into the office.

"Hard luck this summer?"

"You bet. Just walked into town. Say, reckon I can get a chance to sub on something a few days?"

"Oh, yes, good chance."

"I ain't had no luck since I had a paper of my own when I first struck the Territory."

"Monkey-work. You see there was a prominent citizen of the place and a heavy advertiser named Beasley. He went East to get a complete new stock of bar fixtures for his place of business. One day while he was gone another prominent citizen, who took six copies of the paper and sent them to friends, whose name was McCann, was seen out riding with Beasley's wife. I thought it would be thunder-bolt meat to write up an item about the street sales of the paper, though there'd never been a copy sold on the street since it was started. So I wrote a column and a couple of stickful awful sensational and smart, and then went and set it. Just then I said it into the forms I kinder got looking at it and wonderin'. I thought I'd get somebody else's opinion. So I showed the proof to Jim Tanglefoot. Jim read it and I laughed and snorted till he 'chuck it in.' Then I let Ben Clark look at it and he couldn't morn half read it it tickled him so. Then he looked up and says he: 'Old boss, that's blame good, chuck it in.' I showed it to a lot of my regular citizens, and they all 'towed it in' as a good joke on Mr. Beasley and McCann, and that Mr. Beasley would be tickled 'most to death over it. The only thing that varied in was some said 'chuck it in,' and some 'chuck it in.' I there, though, old man Perkins he was the principal of the school did say, 'chuck it in.' An' Elder Blodgett he was only a minister Sunday-school, 'young man, play it on 'em—go right ahead with your rat killin' and I'm cussed if I don't stick part of it into my sermon next Sabbath."

"So I went back and hung the chase round it and drove in the quoms with the store pokers and jabbed some Dutchmen into the air, and swore a little, and 'busted up the forms and sponged off the bottom of 'em with my shirt sleeve, and put 'em on the press. Then I planned to come down with a piece of flour, and the boy 'cause the roller wouldn't distribute, and jerked the old lever, and some more when I saw the paper and laid it on the dry goods box I used for a stone."

"Just then McCann came in and 'towed he'd read that funny business 'bout him. While he was gettin' through it he read mighty slow, but a blame sight better'n I wished he could. Jim Tanglefoot dropped in and read it like he'd never read it before and shook his head and said it might be funny but he couldn't see it that way, and he 'towed McCann wouldn't when he got through it. Then Ben Clark ran through it and looked gloomy, and wanted to know if it was too late to take out his ad. that week. He said to stop his paper anyhow, he couldn't stand no such scandal. He reckoned McCann would rip when he got through it. Old man Perkins and Elder Blodgett put their noses up in the air and printed at McCann and made big motions with their arms 't they were tellin' me to look out when he got through."

"Well, when I got 'bout forty papers printed—I reckon, melby the edition was half or two-thirds off—McCann got through, and I looked round sort of mixed-up like. 'Quite a joke on you, Colonel McCann,' says I with a smile that made me feel sick at the stomach. 'John, blank!' roared McCann, 'tryin' to make trouble 'tween me and Beasley, hey?' Then he made a break for me and kicked me and an' he'd me up on the forms. 'Lemme shut up the machine an' squish the infernal stuff in it!' he howled. But he didn't know how to turn down the frisket, and while he was struggling with it I wiggled over and fell through the window and run for the far ground."

"An' after I was gone McCann 'jest ripped things, an' Jim, an' Ben, an' old man Perkins, an' the Elder turned in an' helped him, and the darned fool by stood round and told 'em how they could do the most hurt. An' Mrs. Beasley showed up 'fore they got through, with a kettle of hot water which the boy directed her to throw on the rollers, sooin' as I was gone, and she couldn't douse me with it, and then she ripped the inside all out of the dictionary and took the files to put under the carpet, and got so tired McCann had to go home with her an' help support her."

"An' they say that when Beasley got home the next day he made 'em think they hadn't done scarcely anything. When he found there wasn't nothin' left to rip he just put a can of blazin' powder under the blinder, lit the fuse with his cigar and run; and when she went off it blowed the whole buildin' galley west."

"I never went back. I've been a tourist ever since, and I'm goin' to stick to it. Got any tobacco?"—Dakota Bell.

Try results of the survey and last census of Indiana are that the area of the peninsula of Hindostan is 1,252,224 square miles and the population 253,891,221. Although immense tracts of country are annually cultivated, according to the most recent survey 1,000,000 acres of land, suitable for cultivation, have not as yet been ploughed. The same time 1,000,000 acres are returned as waste lands.
